Insider Trading incidents are closer than you think!

Secrets are no fun – unless they contain material nonpublic information. In this course, learners will gain an understanding of their responsibility to safeguard MNPI. Using real-world examples of litigation and multiple scenarios. We'll demonstrate that learners are likely closer to letting MNPI slip than they know. We also provide strategies for avoiding risk and how to address issues if they occur.

- Help learners feel confident in raising concerns and reporting incidents that could put MNPI (and themselves) at risk.
- Connect to your company's policies and procedures related to insider trading to make them readily accessible.
- Create organic Insider Trading awareness and educate learners on the processes to maintain an ethical workplace.
